2014 WHA Teaching Prize Winner
WHA is delighted to award Dr. Melanie Krob of the Isadore Newman School of New Orleans the 2014 Teaching Prize for her submission “Mao Zedong and the Cultural Revolution” lesson plan and activity. Congratulations from the WHA and many thanks to all those who submitted.

2014 Book Prize Winner
WHA is delighted to announce that Giorgio Riello, University of Warwick has won the 2014 World History Association Bentley Book Prize for his work, Cotton: The Fabric that Made the Modern World (Cambridge University Press).

World Scholar Fund Recipients
Several scholars and graduate students were able to benefit from the World Scholar Fund, which was in turn the recipient of donations from individuals and the Stern Family Trust. The WHA 2014 Book Prize Winner Giorgio Riello also asked that his award be used to fund graduate students and activities at the conference. We thank all of those who contributed to this award.

AV/Technical Support
There will be computers and projectors in each room. Presenters wishing to use their own Apple computers should bring any needed cables to connect to the projectors. There will be complimentary wireless reception throughout the venue. Please bring all necessary equipment, cables, backup flash drives, and printed paper copies in case of technical failure. For those using AV, please arrive early to load your material on the computer well before the sessions begin.

Welcome to San Jose, Costa Rica

WHA Costa Rica Conference: President’s Welcome

Dear Colleagues,

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you all to the 23rd annual conference of the World History Association, held here at the Marriott Hotel in San Jose, Costa Rica. The members of the Executive Council of the WHA, along with our gracious local hosts at the University of Costa Rica, are delighted that so many of you have been able to join us. We are looking forward to many splendid panels over the next two days, as colleagues explore in myriad ways the dual conference themes of the Environment in World History and Latin America In World History. We are also honored that Professor John R. McNeill will present this year’s Keynote Address, appropriately titled “How Hungry Mosquitoes Liberated the Americas, 1776-1898.”

This is the WHA’s first conference in Latin America, a part of the world that has played a vital role in global history ever since humans began filtering into the region some 15,000 years ago. Costa Rica is a quintessential example of some of the more recent historical processes that have helped reinforce the significance of Latin America to the world. After three centuries as a Spanish colony, Costa Rica achieved independence in the nineteenth century, and has since become one of the most stable, prosperous and progressive nations in Latin America, with an extraordinary commitment to environmental sustainability. In many ways, with its official abolition of a standing army in 1949, its stable democratic system, its very high ranking on the Human Development Index, and the fact that it is ranked fifth in the world on the Environmental Performance Index, Costa Rica is a model for the sort of sustainable development all other nations on earth should be striving to achieve.

This conference comes at a pivotal moment in the history of the WHA. After many years in Hawai‘i, the WHA is in the process of moving its headquarters to Northeastern University in Boston. This transition marks the beginning of an exciting new chapter in the history of our Association, but of course it also brings with it a great deal of sadness as we bid farewell to Winston Welch and Jackie Wah, two dear colleagues who have served the WHA with great distinction. On behalf of everyone associated with the WHA, I thank Winston and Jackie for their service, and wish them every success in the future. I also want to thank them, along with WHA Secretary and Program Chair Maryanne Rhett, for their tremendous work in organizing this conference.

So again, on behalf of VP Rick Warner, Treasurer Carolyn Neel, Secretary Maryanne Rhett, and our colleagues on the Executive Council, let me welcome you all again to this fascinating part of the world, and to a conference that I know will reward attendees with a feast of intellectual and cultural experiences. We are delighted to be here in beautiful Costa Rica, and are looking forward to a great conference, and an exciting new chapter in the history of our Association.

Sincerely,

Craig Benjamin

President, the World History Association (2014/15)
A Message from Our Executive Director

Welcome to Costa Rica and the 23rd annual World History Association Conference. WHA is grateful to be so warmly hosted by University of Costa Rica and the fine colleagues and new friends we have here. Our first conference in Latin America brings an excellent mix of panels, workshops, roundtables and keynote address, all focused on the dynamic field of world history research and pedagogy.

To continue the WHA tradition of warmth and camaraderie, I ask that you play your part by sharing of yourself—turn to your left and right at each new seat you find yourself, extend a smile and a handshake, and start a new friendship. This simple act will greatly enrich your brief time here and result in a more meaningful and valuable experience for all.

The WHA owes a special debt of thanks to Jackie Wah, WHA Conference and Membership Specialist, who has done so much for the organization over the years, serving member needs and attending to the numerous details involved in ensuring the best conference possible. The WHA is blessed to have Maryanne Rhett, Conference Program Chair, who has worked tirelessly with members of the Program Committee, to create an outstanding program. Many thanks to Paul Jentz, Conference Chair and the other members of the Conference Committee, the Welcome Committee members, Mentor volunteers, and all others who have given their time and effort to bring about the success of this conference.

Of course, the dedicated WHA Officers and Executive Council members spend many hours guiding the organization as it navigates an increasingly complex landscape, and to them, the entire world history community owes its thanks.

Jackie and I have sincerely appreciated and have enormous gratitude for the opportunity to get to know so many of you on a personal level. Thank you for sharing of your warmth, kindness, humor, and friendship, which we have cherished and will remain with us as a new chapter is turned for the WHA and us personally.

We welcome your suggestions and ideas for future conferences and for venue locations. Have an excellent time in Costa Rica, and thank you for your involvement in and support of the World History Association.

With aloha,

Winston Welch

FILM SCREENING: “Las Abuelas de Plaza de Mayo and the Search for Identity”

A compelling story of a group of courageous women on a desperate quest to find the grandchildren they believe were stolen during Argentina’s Dirty War. In this award winning documentary, the filmmakers explore the haunting question: Is the right to know who you are a basic human right?

Las Abuelas de Plaza de Mayo is an Argentinian human rights organization of grandmothers committed to finding their lost grandchildren, who they believe were stolen by their country’s government some 30 years ago. At least 10,000—and some estimate as many as 30,000—dissidents of the military dictatorship were kidnapped, tortured and killed during Argentina’s Dirty War from 1976-1983. Those kidnapped became known as Los Desaparecidos or “the disappeared.” Some of the women were pregnant or new mothers when captured, and infants ended up in homes of people sympathetic to the regime. The babies’ names, birth dates and other identifiers were changed. Las Abuelas has located more than 100 missing grandchildren, many who had no knowledge of their true identities.

FILM SCREENING: “The Human Zoo”

Traces the history of 25 people from four different Chilean indigenous groups who, in the late nineteenth century, were kidnapped and exhibited as attractions throughout Europe.

Toward the end of the nineteenth century, 25 people from four different Chilean indigenous groups were kidnapped from Tierra del Fuego and Patagonia by a German businessman and taken to Europe to be exhibited as attractions in cities throughout the continent. THE HUMAN ZOO uncovers the history of this colonial spectacle, and follows the fallout into the present.

Film Screening: “Tinghir Jerusalem”

In TINGHIR-JERUSALEM, filmmaker and historian Kamal Hachkar goes in search of a community that has vanished and confronts fundamental questions of his own identity in the process.

A Berber Muslim born in Tinghir, Morocco and raised in France, Hachkar says “the only thing that I was sure of is that I came from elsewhere.” While he would return to Tinghir every summer with his family, it would be years before he discovered that the town once had a thriving Jewish community. By the mid-1960s though, they, along with the other 250,000 Jews of Morocco, had left for Israel. They were not driven out by rising Islamism or even political enmity over the Arab-Israeli wars that followed the founding of the state of Israel. Instead, they were the targets of a successful Zionist campaign that extolled the virtues of life in Israel and encouraged emigration. Fifty years later, their history has been largely forgotten in their homeland. Hachkar sets off in search of that history. The Jews who left Tinghir did so willingly. Most saw themselves as fulfilling the Biblical teachings to return to the Holy Land. But in going to Israel was their period of exile ending... or was a new one beginning?

Social history for a changing World

A HISTORY OF WORLD SOCIETIES
NINTH EDITION
John P. McKay, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign; Patricia Buckley Ebrey, University of Washington; Roger B. Beck, Eastern Illinois University; Clare Haru Crowston, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign; Merry E. Wiesner-Hanks, University of Wisconsin – Milwaukee

Consider this text in a loose-leaf or e-book version

This new edition of A History of World Societies introduces students to the global past through social history and the stories and voices of the people who lived it. With more global connections and comparisons, more documents, special features and activities that teach historical analysis, and an entirely new look, the ninth edition is even more teachable than previous editions.

UNDERSTANDING WORLD SOCIETIES
A BRIEF HISTORY
John P. McKay, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign; Patricia Buckley Ebrey, University of Washington; Roger B. Beck, Eastern Illinois University; Clare Haru Crowston, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign; Merry E. Wiesner-Hanks, University of Wisconsin – Milwaukee

Consider this text in a loose-leaf or e-book version

Based on the highly successful A History of World Societies, this brief textbook combines innovative pedagogy with a manageable regional and comparative approach to capture students’ interest in the everyday life of the past. A briefer narrative paired with distinctive pedagogy helps students focus on significant developments as they read and review. An innovative end-of-chapter study guide helps students master key facts and move towards synthesis.

Comparative, compelling, and a great value

WORLDS OF HISTORY
A COMPARATIVE READER
FIFTH EDITION
Kevin Reilly, Raritan Valley College

Worlds of History offers a flexible comparative and thematic organization that accommodates a variety of teaching approaches and helps students to make cross-cultural comparisons. Thoughtfully compiled by a distinguished world historian and community college instructor, each chapter presents a wide array of primary and secondary sources arranged around a major theme—such as universal religions, the environment and technology, or gender and family—across two or more cultures.
Narrative and primary sources in one book

WAYS OF THE WORLD
A BRIEF GLOBAL HISTORY WITH SOURCES
SECOND EDITION
Robert W. Strayer, The College at Brockport: State University of New York

Consider this text in a loose-leaf or an e-book version, now with LearningCurve and available in LaunchPad.

This brief-by-design narrative is truly global and focuses on significant historical trends, themes, and developments in world history. Author Robert W. Strayer provides a thoughtful and insightful synthesis that helps students see the big picture. Following each chapter’s narrative are collections of primary written and visual sources organized around a particular theme, issue, or question so that students can consider the evidence the way historians do.

In Memory of

Jerry H. Bentley

(1949–2012)

Jerry H. Bentley was professor of history and editor of the Journal of World History. Throughout a distinguished career he published extensively on the cultural history of early modern Europe and on cross-cultural interactions and exchanges in world history. He was also co-editor of the acclaimed series, Perspectives on the Global Past.

Perspectives on the Global Past

This series is an effort to extend the field of world history in new directions. Perspectives on the Global Past welcomes a variety of analytical approaches and the methods and insights of different disciplines. Books may focus on specific cultural groups and regions or range comparatively worldwide in analysis of large-scale processes, cross-cultural encounters, and global themes.
